CRACKDOWN ON CASUAL LABOUR

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

TOUGH new laws are being used by Haringey Council banning undesirables from parts of South Tottenham.

The council has introduced a public space protection order (PSPO) in a crackdown on anti-social behaviour in the vicinity of the Wickes store in Seven Sisters Road – a well-known gathering place for labourers looking for casual work.

The order, which came into force at the beginning of the month, bans anyone drinking alcohol in the street, obstructing others by congregating in groups of two or more and approaching passers-by for casual labour.

It follows complaints from residents and commuters who felt intimidated. The order extends to 18 surrounding residential roads and anyone who breaches it can be fined and prosecuted.

The control order followed a consultation by the council with residents, with more than 90 per cent of them in favour.

PSPOs were introduced in 2014 as part of the Anti-Social Behaviour, Crime and Policing Act.

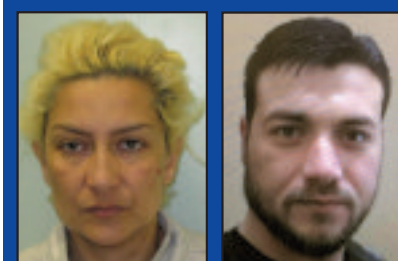

They allow broad powers to criminalise behaviour which is not normally deemed to be against the law, but where ASBOs were directed at individuals, PSPOs are defined geographically, making it possible to prosecute over pre-defined activities within a mapped area.

Anyone who breaches the order could receive a £100 fixed penalty notice or, for repeat/serious breaches, be summoned for prosecution of a criminal offence.

Residents were also in favour of installing a gate in the alleyway between Roslyn Road and Southey Road, which has become a magnet for anti-social behaviour and dumped rubbish.

"These new measures, which have been welcomed by local people, will go a long way towards making South Tottenham a cleaner and safer place to live, work and visit," said Eugene Ayisi, Haringey Council's cabinet member for communities.

Guilty: Gyuldzhan Hadzhieva has been convicted of the murder of Shenol Erol Ali

Woman gets life for murder of partner

A WOMAN has been jailed for life for the murder of her partner at the flat they shared above a Spurs-themed pub in Tottenham.

Gyuldzhan Hadzhieva, 38, was sentenced at Wood Green Crown Court on Monday having been convicted by a jury on Friday of the fatal stabbing of Shenol Erol Ali, a 32-year-old Bulgarian national, above the Bill Nicholson in Northumberland Park on February 3.

Police were called at 11.30pm by the London Ambulance Service to reports of an injured man and woman at a residential address. The man – later identified as Shenol – was pronounced dead at the scene.

Hadzhieva had also suffered multiple injuries and was taken to hospital.

Detectives discovered that the hallway leading to the room where the couple lived was covered by CCTV. Footage showed that no one else had entered the room at the time of the attack. It was suggested that Shenol had been planning on leaving Hadzhieva.

Hadzhieva's condition improved and she was arrested on February 8.

She stayed in hospital for a further 11 days before being taken into custody. She claimed Shenol had attacked her and refused to admit she had stabbed him, even in self-defence, pleading not guilty to the murder charge.

Former steelyard is earmarked for housing development

THE latest plan to redevelop the site of a former steelyard next to Hornsey railway station for housing has been lodged with Haringey Council.

Developers Fairview New Homes have submitted a planning application to build high-rise homes on industrial land formerly occupied by LR Stewart and Sons at the Railway Approach end of Hampden Road.

The land is adjacent to the railway and is bordered by the New River to the north.

A previous scheme by another developer to build 80 homes on the steelyard site was rejected by the council in 2014 following residents' objections to its scale and density.

There could be renewed opposition to Fairview New Homes' scheme, which will double the number of homes on the steelyard site and neighbouring land currently occupied by offices.

"It wants to build 174 new homes in blocks up to 14 storeys tall.

The company has released images of what the finished scheme will look like if the council gives planning consent.

Jim Holliday, sales and marketing director for Fairview, said: "The cul-de-sac where the site is located, Railway Approach, looks neglected and unkempt and we strongly believe that our proposals would give a real lift to this area of Hornsey."

Defecting councillor's parting shot

A LIBERAL Democrat councillor had a pop at former colleagues after defecting to Haringey Council's ruling Labour group.

Crouch End ward councillor Sarah Elliot, who crossed the floor of the council chamber in a shock switch last week, accused the Lib Dems of "failing to offer a positive alternative vision of the future".

The one-time Lib Dem group leader said: "It has become increasingly clear to me that the Liberal Democrats on Haringey Council have been too fast to talk our area down and too slow to put together an alternative sensible, strategic and relevant policy platform for local people."

The current Lib Dem leader Gail Engert claimed the decision to leave a "united, positive party for an acrimonious Labour Party" would strike many people "rather odd".

Sold for £687,500: The Front Lodge in Trent Park

Anger at sale of Trent Park lodge

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THE sale of a historic council-owned building has been blasted as "cavalier" after it was bought as a private home.

The Front Lodge, in Trent Park, fetched £687,500 after Enfield Council put it on the market.

The lodge which dates from the late 1890s, was built in the Tudor Revival style. It was originally a gatehouse to the main mansion and is listed.

Cockfosters ward councillor Jason Charalambous, founder of group campaigning for a museum to be established as part of plans for Trent Park mansion, which has been bought by housing developers the Berkeley Group, criticised the move.

He said: "The sale is a clear reflection of the council's cavalier attitude to the protection of our borough's heritage. The house at the main historic entrance to the park – the grand gated entrance through which German PoWs were driven to the mansion where one of World War II's most intriguing intelligence gathering operations took place, should have been retained in public ownership as it could have served as a valuable resource for the park.

"The sale comes in the midst of constructive discussions with Berkeley Homes on their redevelopment of the listed mansion and I am optimistic of progress towards the establishment of Trent Park Museum.

"However, the council's sale of the lodge is a blow. The lodge could have featured in a wider historic enhancement of the park, potentially forming an outpost or visitors' centre to the proposed museum or wider park."

The council has raised more than £1.5million through the sale of the Trent Park lodge and of another property, which is scheduled for completion this week for £820,000, in Whitefields Road, Cheshunt, comprising four shops, flats above and a former small council depot.

Dino Lemonides, cabinet member for finance and efficiency, said "It is good news to hear that by selling our unwanted and unused assets we have raised £1.5m.

"The rationalisation of our estate is vital to generate much-needed funding. This is a phenomenal achievement."

The council declined to say who had bought the properties, but confirmed that the lodge was sold as a family home and the Whitefields Road shopping parade was being bought by an individual, not a corporation.

Priest jailed for 12 years for sex abuse

A CATHOLIC priest who abused two boys while serving at a monastery in Cockfosters in the 1990s was jailed for 12 years last week after admitting 27 counts of sex assaults against children.

Philip Temple, 66, also admitted two counts of perjury when he appeared at Woolwich Crown Court for sentencing on Wednesday.

They related to his acquittal in 1998 when a jury at Harrow Crown Court was unable to reach a verdict on charges of indecent assault against the two boys at Christ the King Monastery, in Bramley Road. He was cleared following a retrial.

Temple, of no fixed address, abused 11 other victims before he was ordained when he worked at children's care homes in Wandsworth and Lambeth between 1971 and 1977.

Assault leaves man with serious injuries

A MAN has been remanded in custody accused of an assault that left a 34-year-old man with life-threatening injuries.

Akos Varga, 48, of Enfield, appeared at s Corner magistrates' court on Monday charged with grievous bodily harm.

He was arrested on Saturday after a man was found unconscious at the junction of Green Street and Hertford Road, Enfield Highway.

The victim is in a critical condition in an east London hospital. Varga will appear at Wood Green Crown Court on September 12.

Too much monkey business? Not yet

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

THERE has been plenty of monkeying around since the addition of three marmosets to a college's growing zoo.

The playful primates have joined the menagerie of exotic animals at Capel Manor College, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield.

The trio named Rattler, Basset and Red are settling into their new home in a purpose-built enclosure which forms part of the college's zoo gardens as part of the animal care and management courses it runs for students.

There are now more than 260 animals at the college, with the exotic collection including bearded dragons from Australia, south American maras – related to guinea pigs – and meerkats.

The marmosets and the other animals are used to help students gain experience and learn about animal behaviour, managing zoos and animal husbandry.

The marmosets were re-homed by the college, having been rescued by Monkey World in Dorset.

Malcolm Goodwin, deputy principal, said: "These new monkeys, as well as other new animals that have been arriving at the college are all really well looked after by our students and play a vital role in the students personal and professional development."

The animal care and management courses are part of the Princess Royal College of Animal Management and Saddlery. More than 500 students were on the course last year and the college is expecting the same figure this year.

Capel Manor is also known for the horticulture and landscaping, garden design, floristry and arboriculture courses it runs.

Politics can be a dirty business

Clean-up operation: Councillor Daniel Anderson gets his waders on

UP to his waist in green sludge in the middle of a river is where Enfield councillor Daniel Anderson found himself last week.

The cabinet member for environment waded in to help volunteers clean the New River waterway of its slimy covering of unsightly algae.

Soaring summertime temperatures cause algae blooms to occur naturally – and they can be harmful to aquatic life in shallow water by starving them of oxygen.

Mr Anderson was helping clear a stretch of the New River Loop, which passes through the picturesque Gentlemen Row, Enfield.

The removed algae will be used as compost for parks.

Mr Anderson said that clearing the river spruced it up and helped the fish and other wildlife.

However, the council is also looking at more sustainable solutions including introducing microscopic creatures that eat the algae in the autumn as well as installing a pump system that will ensure the river no longer stagnates.

Football legends Hoddle and Brady have got their rivalry down to a tee

SPURS legend Glenn Hoddle and Arsenal great Liam Brady were football foes in north London derby matches in the 1970s – and the duo renewed their rivalry on an Enfield golf course on Friday.

They were at Crews Hill Golf Clu, in Cattlegate Road, where they were competing in a special Tottenham Hotspur Legends tournament to raise funds for the club which is celebrating its centenary year.

Other famous Spurs players of yesteryear teeing off included Cliff Jones from Tottenham's 1961 double-winning team, as well as John Lacey, Paul Miller, Andy Sinton and Clive Wilson and former club physio Mike Varney, plus many others.

Members of the golf club and guests paid for the privilege to play in the 18 teams skippered by the ex-soccer stars.

The event also included a prizewinning auction where club members and the public could bid for a shirt signed by Spurs' current first team squad and a football boot worn by Hoddle in his playing days.

Police open day aims to connect with

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

IT was thumbs-up from residents for the long arm of the law at a fun-filled open day held by Enfield Police.

The free event last Friday at Edmonton police station, in Fore Street, was packed with displays by officers.

Members of the community got the chance to meet their local bobbies, find out more about their different jobs, sit behind the wheel of a police car and a fire engine and see horses from the Met's mounted division and dogs with their handlers.

There was also a flypast by the Met's air support team and an abseil by officers down the side of the building, plus crime prevention stalls and face painting.

The annual open day is normally held at Enfield police station, in Baker Street, but the venue was switched this year following a survey which revealed low public confidence in Edmonton's police compared with other parts of the borough.

The aim was to build trust and foster improve police-community relations.

PC Hayley Nunn said: "We wanted to invite residents of Edmonton to let them know we are here to support them, want to help them and show them the different commands we have at the station."

The Edmonton team have taken to Twitter to engage more with the public by updating them on upcoming events and tweeting about latest burglaries in the borough.

They also tweet about the day-to-day activities of the force, such as the work of the response team.

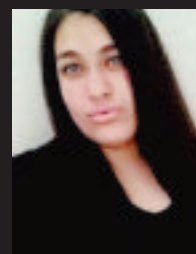

PC Nunn said that the numbers of neighbourhood officers on the streets had been reduced, largely due to budget cuts, but additional support would be implemented soon.

"We have our dedicated ward officers who are always out on patrol and we've just been told that there will be an extra officer for each ward, which will be really helpful," she added.

Concern grows in search for missing girl, 15

Missing since July: Veronica Sbircea

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

THE parents of a missing 15-year-old girl with Enfield links, who vanished from her Midlands home nearly a month ago, have made an emotional appeal to find her.

There have been no confirmed sightings of Veronica Sbircea since the teenager was spotted near the Tesco Extra in High Street, Ponders End, on Wednesday, July 27, and at the KFC fast food restaurant in Brixton, south London, the following day.

Police believe she may be in Enfield. Her family moved from Enfield to Kettering, in Northamptonshire, a year ago.

The former pupil of Kingsmead School, in Southbury Road, Enfield, has been missing from her home for nearly a month after disappearing on July 21.

Her anxious father Anton made an emotional appeal yesterday (Tuesday) for his daughter to get in touch.

He said: "Papu is asking you Veronica to come home. No one here is angry or mad for what you did. Please come back and don't be angry with your mother Elena who loves you very much, with all our love.

"Your family cares and is waiting for you to come back home" he added.

Northamptonshire police have set up an incident room and a team of 20 officers in the East Midlands and London are working round the clock to find Veronica.

Detective Superintendent Elliott Foskett, who is head of crime at Northamptonshire police, said: "We strongly believe Veronica is in the Enfield or Brixton areas and are appealing for people living there to contact us if they know of her whereabouts.

"We are extremely concerned for Veronica's safety as we have had no sightings now of her for almost three weeks.

"We are hoping that someone out there can help us to find her."

The 5ft tall girl, who is also known as Rachel, has long straight black hair and brown eyes. She was wearing dark leggings and a black top when she was last seen.

She sometimes approaches people near fast restaurants, saying she has lost her phone and asking to use theirs.

Det Supt Foskett added: "If anyone is approached in such a fashion by someone resembling Veronica, we would urge them to contact out incident room."

Northamptonshire police can be contacted via 101.

Police investigating Veronica's disappearance arrested a 19-year-old man from Enfield on Tuesday last week. He has been released on bail pending further inquiries.

Paedophile jailed for raping schoolgirl, 12

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A PAEDOPHILE has been convicted of the rape of a 12-year-old schoolgirl in Edmonton just months after he had been released from jail for raping a nine-year-old.

Abdelrazek Badran was released in 2015 after serving a nine-year prison sentence for child rape in 2003 and was found guilty of the latest attack by a jury at Wood Green Crown Court last week.

The jury of six men and six women convicted Badran of raping the 12-year-old and sexually assaulting her after he approached her near Sandhurst Road on January 27 claiming to be a security guard.

The girl was shopping in the afternoon after school for cake ingredients for a school project.

Badran told her that she fitted the description of a shoplifter and he needed to search her.

The court heard that at the time she was on the phone to her mother, who rushed to the scene but could not find her daughter.

Badran threatened that he had a knife and raped the schoolgirl in an alley near the shop.

Just an hour earlier he had told another 12-year-old girl in Shirley Grove that he was a police officer and that he was arresting her and grabbed her wrists as he tried to take her to a van. She managed to escape and the jury was shown CCTV of her running in the street, followed by a man on a bike the prosecution said was Badran.

He was also convicted of assaulting the girl in Shirley Grove by beating, common assault and three charges of breaching a sexual harm prevention order.

The 33-year-old, of Hadrian's Ride, Ponders End, will be sentenced on September 27.

The court cleared him last Wednesday of the theft of a bank card belonging to the girl he raped.

He was also cleared of four charges of sexually assaulting four 11-year-old girls in Oakmere Park, Potters Bar, on November 9 last year and found not guilty of breach of a sexual harm prevention order.

Detective Inspector Mark Rogers, of the Metropolitan Police sexual offences and child abuse command, said: "Badran posed a serious threat to young girls and his conviction has made the streets safer."

He added: "It is possible that he may have approached, and even attacked, other children and I would urge them to come forward."

He said the police took all allegations of sexual assault seriously and specialist officers were trained to speak to anyone who has been the victim of a sexual assault. Anyone who has been affected should contact police on 101.

Guilty: Abdelrazek Badran, above, raped a 12-year-old girl near Sandhurst Road in January

Project aims to focus on benefits of great outdoors

THE benefits of the great outdoors are being emphasised with the launch of a scheme aimed at improving people's mental and physical well-being.

The Proactive Minds project is the brainchild of the Conservation Volunteers, a community charity, which has joined forces with mental health group Mind.

Mind, which already has its own communal garden there, will use the open space in Pymmes Park, Edmonton for group members to carry out conservation work, create a wildflower meadow and grow their own food.

Tree planting and growing vegetables are just some of the garden activities participants can enjoy every Wednesday.

The project welcomes people from the community, whether they need support or simply want to spend time outside, explained Katie Mabbitt, Proactive Minds team leader.

During the first session, which started a fortnight ago, visitors to the park took part in a butterfly survey and spotted several species, including large whites, meadow browns and speckled woods.

They also planted an orchard in the communal garden.

There is already a green gym at the park, which is free to use, to encourage residents to visit

Out and about: Participants Jack McCrickard and Kaddi Debbah water some plants

the park more frequently. Katie added: "Proactive Minds is great because participants not only benefit from better mental health and well-being, but also the community ends up with a better outdoor space for everyone to enjoy."

"We are thoroughly looking forward to meeting and registering more volunteers at our future sessions."

The project is expected to run for two-and-a-half years, with other schemes due to be rolled out in the boroughs of Hackney, Hounslow and Newham.

A load of rubbish: Erol Owayolu and Hasan Kilinc are unimpressed by the council

'I've chased a rat down to the lobby'

Smelly bins are attracting vermin, say residents

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS are kicking up a stink about smelly bins at their Enfield homes.

The offending bins are in the communal area of an estate at Guernsey House, in Eastfield Road, Enfield Wash.

Two years ago fed-up residents signed a petition to have the bins moved and since then 40 residents living in the block have signed it.

At the time an Enfield Homes communal services manager said he was recommending a solution to "make accessing the bins much safer" and "dealing with the issue of smell from the bins permeating into the lobby areas".

Resident Erol Owayolu, who started the petition, has lived in the block for 12 years and is horrified by the conditions.

He said: "I feel sick every time I walk into the building and the lifts stink because the smell travels inside and attracts flies."

Mr Owayolu believed the smell could be improved if the council "jetwashed" the bins inside the bin chamber.

Enfield Council collects the rubbish weekly. However, because the bin chamber is located on the ground floor, when the door is opened residents complain that the smell travels into the building and lingers.

Dali Rodriguez, who lives on the ground floor with her 19-year-old son, said they could not open the windows because the smell fills their flat.

She spoke about the living conditions that have made her want to escape to a friend's house when the weather turns bad.

She said: "Imagine in the winter when it's raining or snowing outside I can't go to my friend's house and say I'm staying here because my bins are full or smelly – you can't do things like that."

There have even been sightings of rats in the building, which residents believe are caused by the overflowing bins.

"I've literally chased a rat from the seventh floor down to the lobby, it was massive," Mr Owayolu said in disgust.

He reported the sighting to the council, but said it "didn't do anything about it".

"When I put the rubbish out, I saw a rat by the bins," Ms Rodriguez added.

Mr Owayolu has visited other blocks of flats in the borough to see where their communal bins are located in his quest to get them moved from inside his block.

He has discovered that bins at estates in Oakwood and Southgate are located outside in a designated refuse area.

A spokesman for the council said: "The major works scheme for Eastfield Road did not include improvements to the bin area in the initial specification.

"Following discussions with residents, the council has agreed to carry out additional improvements, which include installing a partition to the bin room, an extractor fan and renewing the chute hopper.

"A separate specification has been drawn up for the works to the bin room, which will be completed in this financial year."

The council said it would notify residents when it was aware of the timescale for the work and wished "to apologise to customers for any inconvenience caused".

Sitkin points finger at 'misleading' Tories

A DEAL to secure a key site for the massive £3.5billion Meridian Water redevelopment scheme in Edmonton has been successfully clinched by Enfield Council.

But an accusing finger was pointed by the Labour council's cabinet member for regeneration at the Conservative opposition this week, claiming the Tories could have undermined the local authority's bargaining position in tough negotiations for the Phoenix Wharf site.

Alan Sitkin claimed that "misleading assertions" made by Tory group leader Terry Neville and other opposition councillors that failure to compulsorily purchase the land would lead to a bidding war and force the council to pay over the odds "sent the wrong signals about our intentions".

"In the end we acquired the land at a reasonable price – one which will provide Enfield Council with a good profit when the land is redeveloped," said Mr Sitkin.

'Wrong signals': Labour's Alan Sitkin took a swipe at Conservative group leader Terry Neville

Chickenshed Theatre

WHILE most of us are enjoying this fabulous summer heatwave, we at Chickenshed are busily preparing for our new autumn season.

Kindertransport is our first show and opens on September 27. This thought-provoking play, written by Diane Samuels, tells of Eva, who on the brink of World War II, is sent to Britain for refuge from Nazi Europe with little more than a suitcase and an identity label – one of 10,000 children who was evacuated in a rescue mission called the Kindertransport.

We are delighted to welcome our good friend, supporter and ambassador Michelle Collins to take the lead role of Eva. For me, it is an exciting time as Michelle began her career when I directed her as an 18-year-old straight from college in S The Crimson Island.

I was the artistic director of The Gate in Notting Hill at that time.

In true Chickenshed style, I will be taking on many other tasks while directing Kindertransport. I am busily working on the world premiere of this year's Christmas show, Adventure to Oz. This musical extravaganza draws from the wonderful Land of Oz stories created by L. Frank Baum. You will find familiar characters such as Dorothy, Toto, the Scarecrow, the Tinman and the Wizard of Oz himself and I will also introduce new characters such as Ozma, the Queen of Oz, Glass Cat and Patchwork Girl.

I've just handed over the first set of lyrics to our music director, Dave Carey, who has been involved with the creation of Christmas shows here for many years, so I know we're all in safe hands. And as an extra bonus this year, the Evening Standard Award-winning designer Robin Don will be creating our sets.

All I'm trying to do is be honest and pay what I owe

I OWE Enfield Council some money. Not a fortune and I am trying very hard to pay it.

Some of this relates to a parking ticket which was not on my car so the first I knew was when I received the Notice to Owner a month later.

I emailed back immediately explaining the circumstances, but not disputing the ticket. However, the automated payment system will only let me pay £110, the full amount.

This has now been dragging on since the beginning of July. I've emailed, tweeted and have been told there is a backlog of emails to be dealt with. The remaining money is supposedly for council tax. On June 28, I replied to an email from Revenues agreeing to them using my bank details to set up a direct debit. At 6.36pm on Friday evening, I received a message to my mobile stating that my council tax was in arrears. This can only be so if the council has not set up the direct debit which I agreed to.

Looking at the latest population figures for Enfield, I believe that if just one per cent supposedly owes a similar amount to me then the figure comes to nearly £1million. NSL Parking appears to have been rewarded for their backlog with a new contract. When I complained earlier about the way my council tax complaint had been handled, even the council leader's office agreed that it was difficult and frustrating trying to get through by phone.

I'm trying to be honest and pay what is owed but it seems that Enfield Council is happy for me to appear as a criminal.

We need to improve traffic management

I REFER to the letter from K Brown ("This does have wide support", Advertiser, August 3) in connection with the cycle scheme. The writer takes me to task by saying that the scheme proposed for the A105 does have support.

Yes, of course it does have some support, but crucially it doesn't have majority support and that was clear from the council's own consultation carried out last year which was reinforced by the referendum conducted under strict rules by Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes.

This has been augmented by a series of public meetings, at none of which was there anything like a majority of people articulating support for the scheme – in fact quite the reverse.

There is no support within the Conservative group for the present scheme and the fact remains that Labour has no electoral mandate for it.

Of course Mr Brown is right to talk about traffic congestion – we are only too aware of it – but what we need in this borough is far better traffic management.

To take a very simple example a full and properly enforced yellow box junction at the entrance to the Enfield Town centre junction with The Town, Church Street and Southbury Road would go a long way to easing the movement of traffic in that area.

That is of course on the doorstep of the civic centre, but nobody has yet taken the initiative to install it.

We also have numerous examples of unsynchronised traffic light controls across the borough, all of which add to the problems of congestion.

All commonsense tells me a scheme that forces buses to join a traffic lane which will contain all other types of vehicles, apart from cycles, with little or no facility for overtaking is bound to bring more, not less congestion.

How may I ask is that serving the people of Enfield?
Councillor Terry Neville
Leader of the Conservative Group
Enfield Council

□ THREE recent car accidents in Palmers Green are the visible tip of a far bigger problem: in Enfield, cars rule our streets.

You see it everywhere, from the misery of rat-running on residential roads, to the impossibility of safe walking and cycling along major routes.

Cars can be useful servants, but they make terrible masters. "A city can be friendly to cars or friendly to people – but it can't be both" (Enrique Peñalosa, former mayor of Bogotá).

People-friendly street design is the only way to get the balance back.

We need borough-wide 20mph; allocated road space for all-age cycling; narrower carriageways for motor traffic to discourage speeding; better pedestrian crossings; rat runs to be closed; and so on.

Only when people are given priority over traffic will we be able to start enjoying our streets again. The consequence will be fewer people wanting or needing to drive shorter journeys.

Let's reclaim an Enfield where a great-grandmother can cross the road unaided, anyone aged from eight to 80 feels safe riding a bike and children can once again play out on their own pavement.

The reign of the car should be consigned the last century.

No excuses for domestic abuse

FURTHER to your piece on victims of domestic violence ("Campaign aims to keep women safe from abuse", Advertiser, August 10), I would like to reiterate that any kind of abuse is unacceptable and urge victims to seek advice and support.

Enfield Council and its partners have just launched a campaign to highlight the issue of domestic abuse called "He doesn't love you if..." which is particularly focused on young women – helping them to recognise the warning signs of abusive relationships and where to seek help.

Every person has the right to live a life free from violence.

If you or a friend are being abused, get help now. Visit the Enfield Council website for advice on spotting the signs of domestic abuse and details of where to get help and assistance.

No room to put a wheelchair on

LAST year I asked Barnet Council to repair the crossing in Beaconsfield Road, Whetstone.

The crossing near East Crescent is good on one side, but the grass side only has a small footpath and no room to put a wheelchair on.

What is needed is a larger footpath covering two yards of the grassed area.

Also the footpath going up to the 34 bus stop from the crossing is in need of repair.

A LOT of dogs, particularly Alsatians, are just roaming our streets without their owners.

GOOD FUNERAL AWARDS 2016

Harrison Funeral Home in line for a top honour

Harrison Funeral Home has been selected from hundreds of nominees to go through to the final stages of this year's glittering Good Funeral Awards ceremony at the Porchester Hall in London on Thursday 8 September 2016.

The awards are in their fifth year and will be hosted by Penny Smith, familiar to many as a presenter of GMTV and many other TV programmes.

Harrison Funeral Home is now in line to win the prestigious national titles of Low Cost Funeral Director of the Year, Alternative ECO Hearse, Funeral Arranger of the Year, Funeral Director of the Year and Modern Funeral director of the Year.

"The Good Funeral Awards recognise exceptional service to bereaved people from all aspects of the funeral industry and supporting services. By progressing this far, Harrison's has already demonstrated outstanding professionalism, empathy and a willingness to go the extra mile," said Fran Hall, C.E.O of The Good Funeral Guide.

The Good Funeral Awards are wholly independent of the funeral industry and are supported by consumer advocates the Good Funeral Guide and the Natural Death Centre.

Brian Jenner, the event organiser, said: "The Good Funeral Awards recognise all those unsung heroes who work so hard for the bereaved and whose role can so easily be overlooked. Some of the nicest people in Britain work in the funeral business."

Arman gets set for his debut at famous festival

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A BUDDING actor is heading on an odyssey to showcase his one-man show at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.

Arman Mantella is bringing his take on Homer's epic poem The Odyssey – about the hero's epic journey packed with challenges – to the festival, which attracts thousands of theatre fans along with agents.

The show tells the story from the perspective of Odysseus's son Telemachus, who remained at home with his mother Penelope as they waited hopefully for his return.

The show has been given a twist to relate it to the 21st century, says Arman.

"It's my first time in Edinburgh," he said. "Acting is my passion and I'm looking forward to seeing other shows and getting the chance to invite casting directors to see my show."

The 23-year-old actor from Enfield went to Keble Preparatory School, in Wades Hill, Winchmore Hill, before heading off to secondary school in Hertford.

He said: "My first acting experience was playing Rodrigo in a school production of Othello in Year 3 and after that I made an effort to be part of all the school plays throughout primary and secondary school."

He then joined the Palmers Green-based amateur Acorn Theatre company, appearing in The Little Mermaid and Grease at the Intimate Theatre, in Green Lanes. "It was a great way for me to stay in an acting environment now that I was no longer at school and they were a really great group of people to work with," he said.

He spent two years auditioning and won a place on the three-year acting course at the Arts Educational School, in west London.

Since leaving drama school he has appeared in Channel 4's promotional film for its Paralympic coverage.

He played the role of a sparring partner for a US martial arts star in the footage filmed at the ExCeL Centre, in London's Docklands.

He used to train with the martial arts group Team Junkboat in Enfield Lock and said: "It was very inspirational to hear about the Paralympians and their story."

He has also appeared in Fox TV's Tyrant in a shoot which took him to Budapest for a week. He played a member of a group trying to take down the government.

Arman is busy rehearsing the Edinburgh show and is looking forward to seeing the audience's reaction.

"The first night I played for eight people and the next night it was an audience of 50," he said. "You have to adapt the show."

The Telemachy is being staged at the Etcetera Theatre, in Camden High Street, at 12.30pm daily until Sunday and at Greenside, in Edinburgh's Infirmary Street, at 4.05pm from August 22 to 27.

Council's warning to fly-tippers

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

LITTER louts and fly-tippers who dispose of their unwanted rubbish on Enfield's streets are being warned by the council: "Mess with us and face the consequences."

The council is getting tough with litterbugs and fly-tippers as part of a zero tolerance approach.

Last month the local authority issued 729 £80 fixed penalty notices for littering as well as a £200 fixed penalty notice for fly-tipping.

And as part of a campaign against the rising tide of filth, it has launched an out-of-hours hit squad of rubbishbusters to patrol the streets, identifying and removing grot spots and tracking down and fining offenders.

Those who fail to pay the penalty notices issued by litter enforcement officers and the waste enforcement unit risk being taken to court.

Harsher fines could reach £50,000, with some fly-tipping offenders receiving a prison sentence, if convicted.

Domestic waste and unwanted household items dumped on the street account for a large part of the problem.

In one case, a resident of North Road, Lower Edmonton, received a fixed penalty notice after dumping several bin bags of rubbish, a broken vacuum cleaner and a mop and bucket in the street.

"We spend £4.5million a year on keeping our streets clear and we take a zero tolerance position on those who think it's OK to dump their rubbish all over them for us to pick up," said Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment.

"This enforcement operation shows we are actively targeting offenders and tackling this vile anti-social behaviour."

"We'd also urge residents to report fly-tipping to us through Enfield Connected on our website, so we can remove it quickly, and provide us with the details of the individuals they believe are responsible for fouling our fantastic borough," he added.

To report fly-tipping and other environmental problems, go to www.enfield.gov.uk

Deadline looms to have your say on cycle plans

THE deadline is nearing for you to have your say on the latest plans for cycling.

Enfield Council's canvassing of views on the northern part of the Hertford Road Cycle Enfield project – the A1010 North consultation – has been running for 12 weeks and finishes on September 23.

The cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson said: "We are continuing to listen and respond to the issues that are raised throughout the extensive Cycle Enfield consultation process."

"I urge the people who live and work in this area of the borough to look at the plans and tell us what they think."

"We are particularly keen to hear from local community groups and organisations and officers will happily meet with any such bodies as requested."

The council has also produced a summary of the feedback from the A1010 South consultation.

It is also taking more time to consider the Enfield Town and Southbury Road routes and revised plans will be announced later in the year.

The plans for the A1010 North

Looking ahead: Enfield Council's Alix Stredwick guides people through an Cycle Enfield exhibition held last year in Freezywater are being funded through the mayor of London's mini-Holland programme.

Cycle Enfield will see £42million of external investment in the borough.

Annual Graduation Ceremony held for school leavers at HEAD START Day Nursery in Crews Hill, Enfield!

Pre-school children at Head Start day nursery in Crews Hill, Enfield were delighted to receive their Graduation Certificates at a recent ceremony for school leavers.

Lucy Speechley, the Nursery Manager, said "the children were so excited, many of the children have been at our nursery since babies" and "although the children would be missed they are all well prepared for the next phase of their schooling".

The nursery in Crews Hill has 'outstanding' outside learning areas. Lucy goes on to say "what makes our nursery quite unique is our extensive grounds - it is proven that children benefit tremendously from regular sustained periods in a rich and stimulating outdoor environment. It supports children's problem solving skills and nurtures their creativity, as well as providing opportunities for their developing imagination, inventiveness and resourcefulness".

Although the pre-school is full with a long waiting list, the nursery is now busy taking admissions for the new generation of babies in the Under 2's nursery.

The moment of truth – but what happens next?

REVISION is done, the exams are over and now A Levels results day is here.

But whatever your grades, here are a few tips to help you make sense of your results and make decisions about the future.

□ Confirm your place: Once you've received those all-important results in UCAS Track, make sure you contact the college or university to confirm your place.

□ Seek out advice: If you haven't quite got the grades you wanted, don't panic! There are lots of options out there, including higher apprenticeships and the clearing system. You may be able to re-sit exams or find a different higher education course that is suitable for you.

□ Be clear about clearing: Even if you've got the grades you want, you can still go through clearing to go to a different university or college. If you're going through clearing, make sure you have everything you need – namely a clearing guide (use the UCAS website or there will be one in most newspapers) and a notebook and pen.

□ Consider all the options: If you've changed your mind or don't want to take the academic university route, investigate your local college. They offer technical and professional qualifications at a range of levels such as BTECs at Level 3, advanced apprenticeships and also Foundation Degrees or Higher National Diplomas, for example.

□ Explore apprenticeships: If you're looking for a higher education opportunity but without the university tuition fees, it may be possible to find a Higher Apprenticeship. This is a great way to study for a degree level qualification while working in a real workplace environment. You can search for apprenticeships at www.gov.uk/apply-apprenticeship

□ Finally, don't get disheartened. Whether you have received the grades you wanted or not, there is something out there that is right for you and will help to get you on your chosen career path.

Catherine Sezen is Policy Manager for 14-19 and Curriculum at the Association of Colleges (AoC) which is the membership organisation for colleges in England.

She concludes: "This may seem like a really scary time as you are moving on to something new and unfamiliar. But stay calm and think carefully about what you want to do. Make sure you have access to information about all the options available, so that you'll be able to make the best decision for your future. If you're not sure, speak to your local college, which can advise you on all the options available."

Keep on running – and raise money for teaching charity

CHARITY Teach First is calling on Londoners to join the challenge and walk, jog or run 5k or 10k to raise money to give children from low-income communities a great education during next month's Run The River fundraiser.

Taking place on Tuesday 6 September at 7pm, the event, now in its third year, will see about 3,000 people take to the pavements around Tower Bridge for a spectacular and unique route along the River Thames, passing by iconic landmarks such as the Tower of London, City Hall and the Tate Modern.

Teach First works in schools in London and across England and Wales to tackle educational inequality – ensuring that no child's educational success is limited by their socio-economic background. This September, Teach First will send more than 500 new teachers to the capital, reaching children in its 331 London partner schools.

Sponsored by long-term charity supporter Citi, Londoners are encouraged to sign up for either the 5 or 10k route with friends and colleagues for an evening out with a difference.

One of those who took part last year, Becky Lambert, says: "It was lovely running through London, especially as the sun was going down."

"Everyone running was there to enjoy themselves and were in high spirits."

"I was proud to be raising funds for Teach First and supporting such a great cause."

Entry costs £40 which includes chip timing, medal and an official t-shirt but sign-ups using the discount code TOWER will receive a reduction of £5. To sign up and for more information, visit www.teach-first.org.uk/run-river-2016 or follow #RuntheRiver on social media.

Look who's talking...

AS well as agonising over traditional age-appropriate issues like when a child's old enough to walk to school on their own, many modern parents are also debating the hot topic of when to give kids their first mobile phone.

Although new research suggests the average age parents believe it's appropriate to introduce children to mobile devices is eight years old, it also found that 92 per cent of UK children aged two to seven years currently use mobile technology.

Indeed, the Logitech study found 40 per cent of parents believe children should be given access to mobile devices before the age of five, with the majority (84 per cent) saying mobile devices are important to children's education, and 34 per cent stating they 'prepare children for a digital future'.

When it comes to buying a child their own mobile device, Vicki Shotbolt, chief executive of Parent Zone (www.parentzone.org.uk), which helps parents navigate the digital world, says it's a decision for individual parents based on what they know about their child, and their own family circumstances.

"These children are growing up surrounded by technology, so we'd be very strange parents if we tried to exclude them from that."

"Mobiles are how young people communicate, homework's often done online, and parents want to stay in touch with them and make sure they're safe and can get in touch if anything happens."

"A child that doesn't have access to a mobile device is likely to be missing out from their peer group because they all have them."

Rather than buying very young children their own mobile phone or tablet, many parents allow them to play with their own devices.

But Ms Shotbolt says parents don't have to hand over their own devices to keep kids entertained, as there are now many internet-enabled devices specifically designed for children.

"That very clear line of when does a child get their first mobile phone is going to become a moot point because children will have their own devices that connect to the internet in all sorts of ways."

However, she says it's "absolutely fine" for a parent to let their child play with their mobile phone, if it's been set up with a profile for the child, security settings, appropriate filters etc.

However, she admits that getting parents to set phones up correctly for their children to use is a much bigger challenge.

"Especially when children are very little, parents forget they're incredibly adept at finding their way around technology. Even little fingers can wander."

Ofcom says 31 per cent of parents of children whose phone can be used to go online have put filters in place. Generally, parental controls can be found in the device settings menu, and Ms Shotbolt says service providers are very good at providing information about the controls.

Ms Shotbolt says it's also important to set boundaries about mobile use and talk to children about what they do online.

"Just like you wouldn't let your five-year-old out of the door without asking where they were going, you have to apply the same logic with a phone. You know who their real-life friends are, and you should know who their online friends are too."

Grange Park Preparatory School is a long established, happy and successful school that provides a broad and stimulating education. It is situated in the pleasant residential area of Grange Park.

We remain committed to educating girls in small class sizes, thus allowing every child to be known as an individual. The girls enjoy a broad curriculum taught by experienced staff who encourage excellence in all areas of school life.

In September 2015 GPPS opened a Nursery class for boys and girls aged 3 and 4. Nursery staff and children have access to the excellent resources available at GPPS, including outside space, the gym and a cooked lunch for those children staying the whole day. The children follow the Early Years Curriculum with additional specialist teaching in French, Dance, Drama and Music.

In KS1 the children are taught mostly by form teachers with specialist teaching being introduced gradually in KS2. From Reception specialist teachers teach games, French, music, dance and drama. Individual music tuition is available from Year 1.

In Key Stage 2 preparation for 11+ state selective and independent secondary schools starts from as early as Year 3, where girls undertake verbal and non-verbal reasoning as part of the curriculum. In addition in Year 5, girls wishing to sit for selective schools, attend extra prep classes, thus equipping them with the tools to achieve their maximum potential in terms of academic attainment.

Girls enjoy a very busy school life, and benefit from an excellent variety of extra curricular activities, including LAMDA, horse riding and chess, further enriching their experience and creating lifetime memories.

Vita et Pax Preparatory School in Southgate is delighted to announce that the school is now in its successful 80th birthday year. Our foundation took place in 1936 when benedictine nuns from belgium set up a small teaching group in Oakwood. Later, as numbers grew, this modest beginning was consolidated into a School occupying 2 large houses. Our present site has been occupied from the 1960s to the present; the nuns finally retiring to Turvey Abbey in the 1980s, leaving this Catholic foundation in the care of its first lay headmistress, Mrs Stacey.

Vita et Pax is a Catholic School which admits pupils of all faiths. our pupils, who are from a variety of different Christian and other faith traditions, are all valued and respected. The programme for Religious Education is 'The Way, the Truth and the Life', which helps all the children understand Christian traditions and those of other major faiths, through a creatively linked curriculum.

The School strives to provide a warm and homely community, in which everyone is valued as an individual. It is our aim that all children should be hard working, well mannered, articulate, confident and ready to meet the challenge of being good citizens in the future.

Vite et Pax's School Song is enjoyed by our pupils from Nursery through to Year 6, and they are encouraged to live by this ethos.

*You are my brother, you are my friend
You are my sister, our love should never end.
Whatever colour our skin or our hair,
Let us live together, this is our prayer.*

We regularly hold Open Mornings so that you can see the School at work. Please contact the School Secretary for further information.

Six of the best

With the new term just a few weeks away, here's a quick look at some of the best back-to-school gadgets

● Right on time

Watch This Space Watch, £13, Smiggle

Once they've mastered how to tell the time, children may find themselves obsessed with stationery emporium Smiggle. This cool, rubber watch reveals a digital clock every time you press it, which should help keep them on time. Available in pink, blue, green, purple or black, it's a must-have for the new school term, and makes a perfect party present too.

www.smiggle.co.uk

● Pen of plenty

Olixar HexStyli 6-in-1 Stylus, £9.99 (reduced from £14.99), Mobile Fun

This pen is like a Bond gadget. Yes, it's a pen, but it's also a stylus for their tablet and a ruler. Plus, once they're old enough to be getting a little bit handy around the house, they can utilise the genius inclusion of a spirit level, as well as the double headed screwdriver, so you'll never need to search for the Phillips again!

www.mobilefun.co.uk

● Bright spark

Wacom Bamboo Spark Smart Folio With Gadget Pocket, £79.99, Amazon

For creative types who like to doodle their ideas, the Bamboo Spark is a brilliant invention. The Smart Folio contains a notepad and, once you've sketched out ideas or written the perfect start to a story, you can save and store it all in a cloud at the touch of a button – even converting handwriting into text.
www.amazon.co.uk

● Caffeine fix

De'Longhi ECP31.21 Pump Espresso Coffee Machine, £114.39 (reduced from £139.99), Argos

Not strictly for the ones going back to school, but after a leisurely few weeks of summer holidays, resurrecting the school drop-off routine can be something of a challenge. Worry not – a morning espresso is exactly what you need to get going (and this one has a just-hot-water function for tea lovers, too). You can even earn some brownie points making one for your other half, as it brews two at the same time.

www.argos.co.uk

● Look sharp

Maxi Graphic Electric Sharpener, £13, Smiggle

Gone are the days when preparing your pencil case for the new school term gives you blisters on your hands. All hail Smiggle's electric pencil sharpener, with two different-sized holes, for smaller and larger pencils. Load it up with batteries (you'll need four AAs) and off you go.
www.smiggle.co.uk

● Don't be a loser

Tile (Gen 2), £19.99, Very

Attach the discreet tracker to their keys (or anything else you don't want them to lose!) and the location can easily be found via an app on a smartphone or tablet. Also very handy for checking they're where they say they are once the teenage years set in!

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

Beating boredom at a stroke

CHILDREN all over the world have been watching their sporting heroes during the forthcoming Olympics and dreaming of following in their impressive footsteps.

And while that might mean they show an interest in an Olympic sport, once the Rio Games close on Sunday, those dreams of sporting super-stardom are likely to quickly evaporate, along with their interest in the sports.

But now Olympic and Paralympic swimming stars Rebecca Adlington and Ellie Simmonds are trying to prevent that fickle approach to the Olympic legacy, by encouraging children to take up sport now, and stick with it – just like they did.

Double Olympic gold medallist Rebecca, 27, is supporting the new Just Keep Moving campaign from Disney, Change4Life and the Amateur Swimming Association (ASA), involving Finding Dory-themed family swim sessions at pools across the UK as well as 10 Minute Shake Up activities, in a bid to make exercise fun and help children get the hour of daily physical activity they need.

She says that while all children should learn to swim for safety reasons, once they've learned, it's a healthy and fun lifestyle choice.

The former swimmer, who's been taking her one-year-old daughter Summer to the pool since she was three weeks old, says: "If you swim much as a child, you're more likely to do it in adult life, which is important for health. It's also great for having fun, no matter what age you are."

"Anyone can swim – it's great exercise, it's great for fitness and you can do it all year round all over the world. It's brilliant."

Rebecca stresses that taking children to swim sessions isn't about creating champions, explaining: "It's not about being an Olympian, it's about having fun, being confident, doing something different, being active and having that healthy lifestyle, especially for the six-week holiday, when kids get a bit bored and parents struggle to know what to do with them."

Rebecca retired from competitive swimming in 2013, after competing at two Olympics. But she says that when she watches the swimming events in Rio she won't be jealous of the swimmers.

"I'm very proud to have competed in two Olympics," she says, "and also proud of the athletes now who've worked very hard to get there. They deserve the success they get."

She says the Olympics gives a very public platform to a variety of sports, many of them minor.

"What the Olympics have done really well is introduce new sports and swimming, as well as other minor sports."

"It's great that it gives people a push and the encouragement to say 'I want to do that too'."

Quadruple Paralympic gold medal swimmer Ellie is an ambassador for Sainsbury's Active Kids, raising awareness of inclusive sport through the Paralympic Challenge, a partnership between Sainsbury's, the Youth Sport Trust and ParalympicsGB to inspire schools and young people to learn more about Paralympic sports and try them.

"I believe children should be encouraged to try as many sports and activities as possible – I know I was as a child," says Ellie.

If children are more interested in a particular sport after watching the Olympics, parents should let them try it, she urges.

"As interest generally gets less after the Games, there's a chance they'll have found something they really enjoy and will want to continue with post-Games," she says.

Ellie stresses that parents shouldn't push their children into a sport, just encourage them as her parents encouraged her.

"I've only ever been encouraged to do my best and enjoy myself – winning has been a bonus."

The swimmer, 22, will be competing in her third Paralympics in Rio, after winning gold medals at the last two Olympics, and setting two world records at the London Games.

The spirit of jazz: Courtney Pine will swap his more familiar saxophone for the clarinet for his two shows at the Bernie Grant Arts Centre in Tottenham

Jazz maestro's set to blow the house down

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

CONVERTING folk who blow hot and cold about jazz into fans of the music is British jazz legend Courtney Pine's mission.

And the celebrated artist, who performs for two nights at the Bernie Grant Arts Centre, in Town Hall Approach Road, Tottenham, on Friday and Saturday, has hit on the magic formula with his latest project SONG (The Ballad Book).

It's a recital of covers of timeless ballads interpreted by Pine (primarily known as a saxophonist, but this time playing the bass clarinet) and accompanied by award-winning pianist Zoe Rahman.

It's a mesmerising mix of covers of 10 classic and contemporary ballads featured on his latest studio album of the same name.

Modern slow-burners like Chaka Khan's Through the Fire, Donny Hathaway's Someday We'll All Be Free and Brian McKnight's chart-topping One Last Cry are re-imagined inventively, with dazzling virtuoso improvisations of Duke Ellington's Come Sunday, A Nightingale Sang in Berkley Square and Amazing Grace, among others.

Multi-talented musician Pine, 52, describes the bass clarinet as a "beast" to play well, but it's that challenge and the scope the genre provides him for creativity and personal fulfilment that keeps him, he says, "from getting bored and doing something else".

"I'm still as passionate about jazz as when I started out three decades ago," he explains,

"I had to choose a repertoire of songs to appeal to the range of generations I get at my concerts - from 10 years old to grannies.

"That's three generations...think about it - that's like trying to satisfy the musical tastes both of fans of Dizzy Rascal and fans of Max Bygraves.

Pine promises the concerts will provide music "that will move you" and "bring the jazz vibe" to a wider audience.

DAVID BRENT: LIFE ON THE ROAD
(15, 96 mins)

OUR pleasure is Ricky Gervais' self-inflicted pain in David Brent: Life On The Road, a toe-curling faux documentary comedy that catches up with the politically incorrect title character as he embarks on a quest for musical nirvana with his band, Foregone Conclusion.

Life and art are blurred in Gervais' script, which plays like a cover version of his award-winning TV series The Office, replete with a wince-inducing scene of dad dancing that is supposed to attract the fairer sex.

"I'm no lothario, but he is the worst person around women I have ever seen," confesses a pitying bandmate.

Without The Office co-writer Stephen Merchant to rein in his self-indulgence behind the camera, Gervais puts his middle-aged misfit centre stage for every excruciating set piece, including a heart-felt and hilariously misguided rendition of Please Don't Make Fun Of The Disableds.

Consequently, some of the supporting players are thinly sketched and a gossamer thin romantic subplot is almost surplus to requirements.

Music reunions are always big business, so it's understandable that Gervais would want to revisit past glories here and resurrect a dithering everyman, whose lack of graces and self-awareness repeatedly cuts to the bone.

It has been 12 years since Brent (Gervais) awkwardly ruled the roost at the Slough branch of Wernham Hogg Paper Company. He's now a travelling salesman at Lavichem, peddling sanitary products with gusto and irritating his work colleagues including office bully Jezza (Andrew Brooke) and HR manager Miriam (Rebecca Gethings).

Brent does have a few supporters, including Pauline from accounts (Jo Hartley), who has a crush on him, and receptionist Karen (Mandeep Dhillon) – and he takes unpaid leave from his unedifying day-to-day grind to pursue his dream of music stardom as lead singer of his unsigned band.

"The ghost of Alexander O'Neal visited me one night and said, 'You have got what it takes'," explains Brent, who plunders his savings to hire a despairing road manager (Tom Basden) and a quartet of talented session musicians, including his nephew Stu (Stuart Wilkinson) on guitar.

A rapper called Dom Johnson (Ben Bailey Smith aka Doc Brown) joins Foregone Conclusion to bolster the band's yoof appeal as the mutinous and motley crew embarks on a tour of venues close to the Lavichem office.

David Brent: Life On The Road is peppered with uproarious one-liners and moments of skin-crawling brilliance that confirm Gervais as a master of unflattering observation.

Music performances include the stand-out track Native American and a reprise of the 2013 Comic Relief song, Equality Street.

The mockumentary conceit isn't consistent and the sentimentality of the band's final performance feels contrived, but it's nice to have some sweetness to cut through the film's acidic brand of humour.

FLAT OWNERS BEWARE

This week my sales team have told me that as a Chartered Surveyor I should be advising flat owners to look closely at their lease lengths before putting their properties on the market. Now, as the majority of leases in Enfield will have more than 60 years to run, you might think that only the very young or the incredibly fit will need to worry about such things. However, for various reasons, buyers' views have hardened in recent years, such that the value of a leasehold flat will start to fall in relative terms quite early on in the life of the typical 99 year lease. Indeed, below a certain point it can be difficult to attract a buyer. At what stage that happens will vary from flat to flat, although generally we would advise leaseholders to check they have at least 80 years remaining if they wish to avoid problems. The 80-year mark is important; at that point the statutory valuation rules for lease extensions change. And they do so to the freeholder's advantage.

For a flat owner the statutory process for obtaining a lease extension can be bewildering. There are rules of both procedure and valuation to follow. I would always advise that the first port of call should be a local Chartered Surveyor who is experienced in the valuation aspects of the job and, equally importantly, is aware of the subtleties involved in obtaining an extension speedily and at a sensible cost. In practice many lease extensions are agreed without recourse to the formal procedures of the Leasehold Reform Act, and legal advisers do not need to become involved until the vital elements of the new lease have been agreed in principle.

The first tip I would offer to a flat owner who wishes to move and requires a lease extension is this: by all means ask your freeholder about the likely cost of extending your lease, but do not disclose that you are thinking of selling your flat! If you want to know why this should be, or wish to discuss any other aspects of lease extensions, please contact me at Barnfields.

Bold, muscular, powerful...

By Matt Joy

UNVEILED to the public at the Geneva Motor Show in March, this sporty-looking SUV is the fourth (and smallest) member of Audi's Q range – the entry point to the Q range – alongside its bigger brothers, the Q7, the Q5 and the Q3.

Priced from £22,230, it's set to take on the Mercedes GLA and the BMW X2.

Taking the form of a five-door utility vehicle, the Q2 is quite the looker. Thanks to its high shoulder line and low roof that descends and merges into the C-pillars with contrasting colour offset blades, the Q2 boasts a bold and muscular stance. Up front, its high-mounted singleframe octagonal grille, hawk-eye headlights and large air inlets mounted on the front bumper result in a menacing look.

The Q2 incorporates the latest multimedia gadgets from the new A4 and there are three generously equipped specification levels to choose from, with the entry level SE versions benefitting from a suite of features from standard. These include smartphone interface, which supports Apple CarPlay and Android Auto, a seven-inch MMI screen and Bluetooth connectivity.

For an additional £1,500, Sport models gain 17-inch alloy wheels (up from 16-inch on SE), drive select with five operational modes, cruise control, light and rain sensors, and sport seats. Step up to the range-topping S Line, £2,250 above the Sport, and stand-out features include the hallmark front, side and rear styling enhancements, 18-inch alloy wheels, LED headlights, LED interior lighting, and a multi-functional steering wheel.

All models can be specced with Audi's virtual cockpit display – an all-digital 12.3-inch display showing information tailored to the driver's needs.

To help attract a new generation of buyers, Audi has created an extensive palette of extravagant colours for customers to choose from – 12 to be precise. There's also a huge list of customisation options inside and out, including a two-tone roof and coloured dash inserts and inlays. These little touches have been specifically designed to counter criticism that all Audis come only in dull greys, blacks and blues. All UK cars will also come with colour-coded bumpers.

Let's look at the tech: inside, drivers will be impressed to see the Q2 comes with a wireless phone charger, smartphone connectivity and a Bang & Olufsen stereo system as standard. In short, the Q2 is equipped with technology you'd expect to find further up the range.

Along with the optional virtual cockpit and head-up display, the Q2 can also be specced with assistance systems such as Audi's pre-sense safety kit (which includes pedestrian recognition and Autonomous Emergency Braking), adaptive cruise control, traffic jam assist and active lane assist.

The Q2 also fulfils the fundamental expectations of an SUV with benefits such as good visibility and a large boot, which can carry up to 1,050 litres.

Optional practical solutions include a power tailgate and a three-way split rear bench backrest with cargo through-loading.

It's spot on. Audi has managed to build a spacious and compact SUV that can nip around corners with ease. In fact, it's one of the most powerful models in the segment. It even incorporates a low seating position, similar to what you'd find in an Audi saloon car, which gives you confidence while on jaunts across winding country roads.

LAMELA QUICK OFF THE MARK

GOALSCORER Erik Lamela hailed his teammates after Spurs came from behind to bag a point in their Premier League opener at Goodison Park on Saturday.

"We're not happy with the result, but at least we didn't lose," said the Argentine forward, whose 59th-minute glancing header earned Spurs a 1-1 draw with Everton after Ross Barkley's free-kick had given the home side an early lead.

"We deserved it in the second half," said Lamela. "In the first half we didn't play well. We had to improve a lot and the second half was different. We played much better."

Spurs took control after Lamela's equaliser and a point-blank save by Everton goalkeeper Maarten Stekelenburg denied Vincent Janssen, who replaced Eric Dier after 55 minutes, a debut goal.

"When Vincent came on, he helped us a lot," added Lamela, who also saw Stekelenburg turn his shot on to the crossbar.

Head coach Mauricio Pochettino also praised the 22-year-old Dutch striker, who was signed last month after scoring 27 goals in 34 matches for AZ Alkmaar.

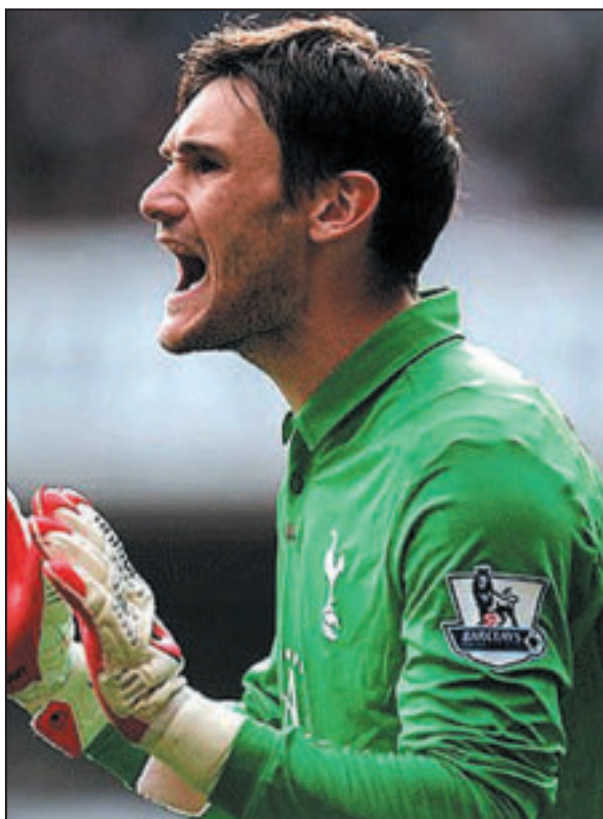

"I was happy with his performance," said Pochettino. "He complemented Harry [Kane] and both played very well. Vincent is a different type of striker."

"I think Stekelenburg was man of the match and that speaks a lot about how it was in the last 45 minutes."

"It was the first game of the season and it's always difficult. The first half was difficult for different reasons because they scored early and then Hugo [Lloris] was injured."

"In the second half we fixed some things and deserved the draw, and had chances to win the game. We were unlucky. Now we need to follow up."

France international keeper Lloris had to be replaced after only 35 minutes after going off with a hamstring injury and Spurs are waiting to see if he will be fit to face Crystal Palace at White Hart Lane on Saturday.

Injured: Goalkeeper Hugo Lloris had to come off at Everton

Borough's three-goal opening

HARINGEY Borough opened their Ryman Division North campaign in fine style with a 3-0 home win over Dereham Town on Saturday.

Borough raced into a two-goal lead inside the first 15 minutes through Anthony McDonald and Chris Benjamin, who completed the scoring with his second goal of the game in the 90th minute.

This Saturday, Borough, who visited AFC Hornchurch for a league match last night, are at home to Barkingside in the FA Cup preliminary round (3pm).

North Middlesex maintain pressure on league leaders

NORTH Middlesex maintained their challenge for the Middlesex County Cricket League Premier Division title with a convincing home win over Stanmore on Saturday.

Batting first after winning the toss, North Middlesex totalled 213-9 as the league returned to a 50-over format for the last four games of the season – and then dismissed the visitors for 131 in 36.5 overs.

As a result second-placed North Middlesex stay six points behind leaders Teddington and five points ahead of Richmond, who occupy third place.

Half-centuries by Evan Flowers (51) and Connor Nurse (50 not out) provided the backbone of North Middlesex's innings.

In the absence of leading wicket-taker Joel Hughes, Liam O'Driscoll (3-23 in his 10 overs) led the way with the ball and Nurse completed a good afternoon's work by finishing with 2-40 from eight overs.

North Middlesex reduced Stanmore to 61-8 before they were held up temporarily by a ninth-wicket partnership of Andrew Rule (34) and Marc Reingold (33).

□ Hornsey slipped to a 68-run defeat at home to Acton and are now 12 points behind second-placed Brondesbury in their bid for promotion from the second division. Put into bat after Hornsey won the toss, the visitors reached 192-2 thanks mainly to Yasir Mehmood (80), Seb Warwick (38) and Sahil Ker (36).

Their innings closed on 248-9 after 45 overs. Paul Weekes (3-29) and Joseph Emanuel (3-43) were Hornsey's most successful bowlers.

In reply, Hornsey lost Weekes for 33 and Sean Solia for 32 and Emanuel, coming in at number three, continued his fine match by scoring 70.

He was eighth out on 176 as Hornsey slumped from 155-4 to 180 all out in the 41st over.

□ Highgate slipped back into the bottom two of the second division as a result of Acton's win at Hornsey and their two-wicket defeat at home to runaway leaders Finchley.

It was battling performance by Highgate against a side set to return to the top flight at the first time of asking after being relegated from the premier division last year.

Sandun Dias was top scorer with 72 after Jake Sharland (49) dominated an opening stand of 65 with Chris Arul after Highgate won the toss and batted first.

Syed Muazam Ali chipped in with 33 and Craig Gourlay made 25 as Highgate reached 224-6 after 45 overs.

For Finchley, Hassan Khan and Jake Milton took 3-36 and 2-31 respectively. The visitors then clinched victory with nine balls to spare despite some steady bowling by Dias (3-48), Robin Glassberg (2-43) and Gourlay (2-47).

Sumeet Sharma (53) was Finchley's top scorer and he was supported by Khan (32), Milton (26) and Sumit Jadav (21) before Keerthi Ranasinghe (29) and Sunil Tailor (29 not out) put on 61 for the eighth wicket.

□ In division three, North London edged to a 22-run win at South Hampstead.

North London were dismissed for 189 in 43.5 overs with Jack Atchinson last out for 68 after coming in at 70-4.

Mohamad Choudhry (3-9), Felix Walker (3-23) and Aynish Patel (3-34) all took three wickets for the home side.

Sam Bardon (3-26), Jordan Gregory (2-23) and Tom Wakeford (2-28) led the way with the ball for North London as South Hampstead were bowled out for 167 with two overs to go.

Choudhry made 34, with Dan Grabinar contributing 31 and Nish Patel a quickfire 30.

This Saturday, North Middlesex are away to Twickenham (12noon). Hornsey travel to Barnes and Highgate visit Enfield while North London are at home to Kenton – all these matches starting at 12.30pm.

Olympic sprint duo bow out in semi-finals

ENFIELD and Haringey Athletic Club sprinters CJ Ujah and Desiree Henry both bowed out in their 100metres semi-finals at the Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro.

"I was out by a thousandth [of a second], but ran my best race of the season so far," said Ujah after finishing fourth in 10.01seconds.

"I always dip, but I didn't really this time when it mattered. I'm disappointed, but I'm going to take all of this and build on it."

"I just wanted to step up and make the final, but unfortunately I was just a bit short."

The 22-year-old, who is a member of the sprint relay squad, had clocked 10.13secs to take second place in his heat and qualify for the semi-finals, ranking equal eighth overall.

"It's not a fast track, but at these Olympics it can't be about times," he added.

Henry, 20, who won her heat in 11.08secs, also finished fourth in her semi-final in 11.09secs and was ranked 12th overall.

"It wasn't the Olympic ending I was hoping for in terms of trying to make the final," she said, "but I'm proud of myself for believing that I could run up against these girls and really trying to make it to the final."

"It wasn't the time I was wanting in terms of the British record, but I'm still ready to role. I might not have a final, but I've still got a role and responsibility in terms of the rest of the girls in the relay."

"So I'm just going to recuperate, stay fit and healthy and know that the British girls are ready for the relay."

Skolars subdued after bright start

LONDON Skolars suffered their third successive defeat in rugby league's Kingstone Press League One Super 8s on Sunday when they were beaten 30-10 at Keighley Cougars.

Even though they had to walk the last mile to Cougar Park due to an accident on a nearby bypass, the Skolars got off to a good start and opened the scoring in the ninth minute when James Hill dived over in the corner and then Oscar Thomas converted a penalty awarded for offside to put them 6-0 ahead after 18 minutes.

But the visitors were largely under the cosh for the remainder of the game after Danny Lawton shrugged off one tackle to get over the line.

Skolars fell behind when Adam Brook raced over after throwing a dummy to Darren Hawkyard and they found themselves trailing by eight points at half-time after Richie Hawkyard touched down under the posts following a right-wing break by Andy Gabriel.

After a scrappy start to the second half, the home side scored again in the 52nd minute when Lawton sent Ross Peltier racing through.

Keighley had another effort ruled out for offside, but Skolars' reprieve was short-lived as Gabriel stepped inside to touch down under the posts moments later.

Hill's second try of the match – similar to his first as he dived in at the left-hand corner – was scant consolation for Skolars.

Cougars rounded off the scoring when Aaron Ollett switched the play and James Feather dived over after bursting through a defensive gap.

This Saturday, London Skolars are at home to Barrow Raiders (2pm).
